

METHODS AND COMPOSITIONS FOR PULMONARY DELIVERY OF INSULINABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Systemic delivery of insulin to a mammalian host is accomplished by inhalation of a dry powder of insulin. It has been found that dry insulin powders are rapidly absorbed through the alveolar regions of the lungs.